

Media theorists suggest that code operates as a kind of law that collapses legislative, juridicial, and executive powers. To what extent to do you agree with this?

q3

- Legislature:

- President and Parliament
- power to make new laws and change existing ones

- Executive:

- President, Cabinet, and Attorney-General
- power to administer law, i.e. put laws into effect

- Judiciary

- Supreme Court and State Courts
- power to interpret law, including deciding and pronouncing a judgement and carry it into effect
